A/N: First of all, if you're reading this fic, you shouldn't be. I really can't stand this fic. I hate it, even though people say it's good (if not sick).

Anyway, you have no idea of the weird mood I was in when I wrote this. I don't know WHERE the inspiration for this came from. In fact, there was no inspiration for this. The story just came. I was possessed. I was originally going to translate this into Spanish (maybe to hide all the sickness in it), but it didn't translate very well. Can anyone tell me what desvergonzadamente means? Anyway, beware of this fic. It's utterly disturbing. I've already traumatized Draca for life. But, hey, if it could do that, it must be pretty well written!

Harry Potter hated Draco Malfoy more than anything. He hated Draco more than the Dursleys, and even more than that pig-faced son of theirs.

He was an outlaw now, because he had let that hate fester inside of him for so long. He envied the way that Ron could shamelessly channel his anger into simply beating Malfoy up. Of course, that was before Harry killed him, too.

Where had he gone wrong? What happened to turn him into this homicidal maniac? Did all the injustices in his life finally get to him so much that he just snapped? Yes, that must have been what happened.

The body count was getting higher, but it was nothing compared to the lives he had ruined. He had raped Hermione, but not killed her. She needed to suffer. She and Ron never had any business being together. And now she had to suffer without him.

No one feared Voldemort anymore, now that Harry Potter was at large. Harry always knew that he was more powerful than ol' Voldie, but he never wanted to admit it. He didn't want to admit the amount of turmoil he could produce. But now, things were different.

Harry reflected on his childhood while using someone's finger bone for a toothpick. It was all the Dursleys' fault. If it weren't for their treatment of him, he would have never turned out this way. Of course, if it weren't for Voldemort, Harry probably would never have even been associated much with the Dursleys.

Did Voldemort know that by killing James and Lily Potter he was just helping a more powerful dark wizard to rise up with and against him? It was odd, the way they were both dark wizards, but they were so much opposed to each other. It was only a matter of time until they would destroy each other.
